Rumor says that a wedding will shortly take place near Peytona, Shelby county, that will astonish the natives in that section. The parties have reached an age at which they would be least expected to commit matrimony. The prospective bride and groom have our best wishes.

We have heard a great deal about tramps running all sorts of risks to steal rides on railroad trains, but a young man of that persuasion performed a feat at the depot in this city, one morning last week, that is just a little ahead of anything we have heard of yet. When the morning passenger train came from Louisville and stopped at the platform, he took his stand in the street by the side of one of the coaches and waited until it commenced to move off towards Lexington. When it had gotten well started he quickly darted under the car, climbed upon the truck frame, curled his legs around the timbers and laid down between the frame and the bottom of the car. Went off with the train, and we suppose reached the point he desired to go to in safety, as we have heard nothing of a man being run over between this city and Lexington in the last two weeks. He was in a green, and rather small, which accounts for his being able to get into so small a space as he did.

The Missionary Board of Franklin Baptist Association will meet at the Baptist Church in Frankfort on Thursday next, at 11 o'clock A. M. The following named persons comprise said Board: Thos. Rodman, sr., T. J. Stevenson, L. B. Witt, R. J. Shannon, J. B. Lewis, M. McGraw, T. W. Scott, Thos. Farmer, J. Polk Moore, J. E. Tharp.

The Maysville Sunday Morning Call says: The Winchester Sun, in speaking of Rev. J. W. Mitchell, formerly pastor of the M. E. Church, south, in this city, and whose friends in this section are as numerous as the sands on the sea shore, so to speak, says:

Rev. J. W. Mitchell, appointed by the last annual Conference of the M. E. Church south, to the pastorate of the M. E. Church south, at this place, is meeting with the hearty approval of his congregation. He is a preacher of marked ability, a thorough christian gentleman, and a zealous worker in the cause of the Master.

The War on the Upper Ohio.

In accordance with the order of the Adjutant General issued last week, the McCreary and Nuckolls Guards left this city Monday morning, in company with a company of the Louisville Legion and a section of artillery from that city, who came up the evening before and spent the night here, for the purpose of assisting in guarding Neal and Craft, the Ashland murderers, to Catlettsburg. At the time the militia left it was rumored in this city that a large number of men in Ashland, Catlettsburg and Ironton, Ohio, had banded themselves together and sworn that the murderers should never leave Boyd county alive, and great apprehension was felt here lest our boys would have trouble after a change of venue was granted, and they should attempt to remove the prisoners, and the papers were anxiously searched each day for news from Catlettsburg. Until Wednesday afternoon no information of an alarming nature was received, and it looked as though the trouble was all imaginary; but about 4 o'clock in the afternoon of that day a dispatch was received from Mr. Charlie O. Reynolds from Hanging Rock, Ohio, announcing that there had been a fight at Ashland, but the boys were all safe. The news spread rapidly and created great excitement. Large crowds gathered on the street corners and about the telegraph office, and everything in the shape of news was eagerly caught at, but nothing of a satisfying nature could be gotten hold of until the official report of Maj. J. R. Allen was issued as a supplement to the Yeoman Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock. It then became known that the boys had reached Lexington and would be at home on the afternoon train, and arrangements were made to give them a sort of informal reception.

When the train arrived a large crowd gathered and escorted the two companies to the State House Yard, where an address of welcome was delivered on behalf of the citizens by Hon. Ira Julian, which was responded to by Col. J. Stoddard Johnston on behalf of the soldiers, and then the boys were dismissed and allowed to go to their homes.

They were soon surrounded by friends and eagerly questioned as to the events of the day before, and each corroborated fully all the statements of Major Allen made in his official report. One young man told us that every one on board the boat would be willing to swear to the truthfulness of that document. It seems Major Allen was notified Wednesday morning that a mob had gathered at Ashland and were searching every west bound train for the prisoners, and determined to return with his command by river. While making arrangements to leave, a train filled with armed men arrived from Ashland and demanded of him the surrender of Neal and Craft, which demand he promptly refused to accede to, and it looked as though a collision between the mob and troops was bound to follow; but just at this time the Steamer Granite State arrived, and the soldiers and prisoners were taken on board, the McCreary Guards covering the retreat down the river bank. As the boat left the mob informed the soldiers that they had 2,000 men and two pieces of artillery at Ashland and would catch them there. They then returned to their train and began a race with the boat to Ashland. At a point a mile or two below Catlettsburg, where the railroad runs close to the river, the men on the train opened fire on the militia, the shot striking the water all around the boat, but not a shot was fired in return. This doubtless led the mob to believe there was no fight in the soldiers, so they pushed on to Ashland, took possession of the ferryboat, and as many as could get aboard did so, pushed out into the river, hailed the Granite State and attempted to stop her; but as their commands to stop the boat were not heeded, they fired a number of shots at the soldiers, slightly wounding several of them, when Major Allen gave the command to fire, and it was obeyed with a will, and the ferryboat was soon too badly disabled to follow them further.

The McCreary and Nuckolls Guards were stationed on the hurricane deck of the steamer, and at then the principal fire of the mob was directed, but both companies have themselves like true soldiers, especially the Nuckolls Guards, while the latter were lying down behind a temporary breast-work. Dr. Alvin Duvall, Assistant Surgeon, received a bullet in his coat; Sergeant Harry Graham, of the McCrearys, had a bullet pass through his helmet; Corporal Duncan Holmes, of the Nuckolls, was grazed under the left eye by a bullet shot, and Private Louis Scott, of the same company, had the end of the second finger of his left hand shot off, and received a scalp wound from a bullet shot.

The mob were armed with shot guns and pistols, and fired not only from the ferryboat, but the bank, many of the soldiers saying that they distinctly saw the flash of guns all along the levee at Ashland, from the river to the head of the grade. All the boys we talked with say their fire was directed against the men on the ferryboat, and not once did they fire towards the crowd on the bank. The soldiers were also fired at by a few on the Ohio side of the river, and it is their belief that many of the wounded on shore were shot by the mob. The statement by a correspondent from Ashland that there were only twenty-five intoxicated wild boys on the ferryboat is rather thin, as everyone who was in the fight says the boat was full of men closely crowded together.

After leaving Ashland there was no further trouble. The boat reached Maysville in time for the troops to take the train for Lexington, where they arrived about ten o'clock Thursday morning.

It is to be regretted that so many valuable lives were lost at Ashland on account of such senseless and needless bloodshed. Those who are most ready to condemn the militia for their course would have acted as they did under the circumstances, and perhaps worse. And had they surrendered the prisoners to the mob these same fault finders could not have cursed them enough.

If Catarrh has destroyed your sense of smell and hearing, Hall's Catarrh Cure will cure you. 75 cents per bottle. Druggists sell it.

A very quiet element took place from this city last week so quiet in fact was the affair conducted that outside of a few intimate friends of the parties interested but few persons knew that they were married until several days after their return to this city. Mr. George Shaw, youngest son of Mr. J. R. Shaw, had for some time been paying his addresses to Miss Eliza South, grand daughter of the late Col. Jerry South, but some of her family did not approve of the match and concluded to send her to the home of a relative in one of the Mountain counties. Accordingly she was placed upon the morning train Wednesday of last week, at Jones Station, and instructed to proceed thither; but Mr. Shaw had been notified of the programme and left this city on the same train. When the train pulled out from the Station he stepped into the ladies car, took his ladylove in charge, and together they went to Aberdeen, Ohio, and sought the services of Squire Masie Beasley. That gentleman was not at home, but had gone to Georgetown, Ohio, on business, and after waiting all day for his return, they took a buggy and proceeded to Ripley, thence to Georgetown, where they were finally made one flesh by Squire Beasley and returned to this city Friday morning.

Says one: "Kendall's Spanish Cure is the best treatment for human flesh I ever used," and thousands have extolled it in similar terms.

Col. Tom Buford, who assassinated Judge John M. Saturday night's row took place as usual in Craw. Ben Gatewood and Rousseau Pointer, both of the colored persuasion, got in a fuss which resulted in Pointer using a knife pretty freely on Gatewood, inflicting dangerous wounds.

A row occurred Saturday night at Alton, Anderson county, between Jerry Horn, white, and Jim Ross, colored, over a game of cards, which resulted in the colored man drawing a pistol and shooting the white man in the head, inflicting a wound from which he died.

If there is an ordinance against shooting within the city limits it certainly should be enforced, for we are informed that it is absolutely dangerous to pass along the streets in the lower end of the city on account of the reckless manner in which pistols are fired off in that locality.

A number of pistols stolen by Dan Chapman from Messrs. Gray & Rodman have not yet been returned, and the names of several parties who purchased them are known. Now if those who have them do not wish to be prosecuted for retaining stolen goods it would be well for them to bring them in to the rightful owners.

The following story is told of one of our young soldiers: He went to a neighbor's house in this city to spend the night with a friend, the balance of the family being from home. After retiring and extinguishing the light the young man of the house began talking about what they would do in case a burglar should get into the house, when our young friend said, "Oh, lets talk about Jesus."

The Capital Hotel, which has been undergoing thorough repairs for the past month, was formally thrown open to the public Wednesday and is now ready for the reception of guests. To one who knew the house in the past it seems completely transformed. The interior of the building has been newly papered, painted and refurnished throughout, a number of modern conveniences have been put in, both rooms and water closets for ladies and gentlemen neatly constructed, and the building and the whole establishment thoroughly overhauled. The dining room especially is a model of beauty. An experienced French cook has been engaged and the housekeeping proprietor, Mr. Jerome Watson, cannot let the table lack for the best the market affords.

The dinner spread on the opening day was a treat fit for a king, and was greatly enjoyed by the large number of guests who partook of it. Frankfort can truly boast of a first-class hotel which will hereafter be kept in first-class style.

Matrimonial.

The marriage of Dr. W. L. Rodman, son of Gen. John Rodman, and Miss Bettie C. Stewart, eldest daughter of Dr. J. Q. A. Stewart, Superintendent of the Institution for the Feeble-minded, which took place at the Presbyterian Church at noon Tuesday, was the social event of the season, and was witnessed by a large number of friends of the young couple. The altar was beautifully decorated with flowers and lighted with wax tapers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Morris Evans, of the Methodist Church, in a very impressive manner. Messrs. Geo. L. Payne and Chas. L. Lewis, R. C. Murray and Jos. LeCompte, Jacob Corbett and Jas. Blackburn, jr., Hon. Ira Julian and Dr. Sam James, Maj. B. W. Arnold and Hugh Rodman, Esq., acted as ushers and Messrs. Leonard Stewart and Annie Rodman as bridesmaids, and entered the Church in the order named, the bride and groom bringing up the rear. The bridesmaids took position on either side of the contracting parties during the ceremony, and on leaving the Church were accompanied by Maj. Arnold and Mr. Hugh Rodman.

After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the Governor's Mansion, where a reception was given them and to Mr. John L. Sneed and wife. After spending a few hours there with their friends the newly wedded pair left on the C. & O. train, at 4:10 P. M., for their future home in Abilene, Texas, followed by the best wishes of a host of friends.

The bridal presents were numerous as well as valuable and handsome.

Mr. D. P. Bentley is charmed with his new boarding place, as he says he is in paradise now.

A young man in this locality has been paying his address to a married lady under the impression that she was single.

Our public school, under the care of Mr. D. P. Bentley, has an average attendance of seventy, and is in a prosperous condition.

The young ladies say that most of the young men in this locality have turned out their noses, but they will never come back. Try the effect of soap suds, boys.

Married.—At the residence of the bride's father, on Thursday, November 24, Mr. Thomas Lee and Miss Sidney Snook. We tender them our heartiest congratulations.

X. Y. Z.

ELMVILLE, KY., Oct. 24, 1882.

Editor Roundabout:

DEAR SIR: In your issue of the 21st inst I see, under the head of Elmville, an article signed J. K. H. referring to the Poe School house. I take the present opportunity of informing you that it is all a mistake. The school is in a prosperous condition and has been visited by the Commissioner, who delivered the school a very interesting speech. Mr. J. K. H. says there has not been a school taught in the district for eight years. During that time some of the most distinguished teachers of the county affords have taught here, among them Rev. J. B. Ingles, J. P. Hutchinson, and others having a first-class collegiate education.

There has never been a school taught in the district since the present Commissioner has been in office, but he has attended the school and delivered magnificent lectures. The trustees, ex-trustees and the community generally say the present Commissioner has been more punctual than any of his predecessors.

I suppose Mr. J. K. H. has thrown a heavy load on his shoulders by obtaining a divorce, which announces him a candidate for matrimony again. It only took one vote to elect him before, and we feel assured that he will not get that many again.

I would advise J. K. H., D., to quit shooting at random, as in all probability he will inflict a mortal wound on some of his best friends.

E. H. W.

The tobacco is a loomer.

Tobacco is most all housed in this part of the county.

Born.—To the wife of Curran Moore, a fine son—weight 15 lbs.

Mr. Albert Webster has gone to Owen county to remain a few days.

Your correspondent made a flying visit to Henry county Saturday and Sunday.

M. D. O'Nan has gone to Henry county to spend several days with friends and relatives.

Mr. J. S. Moore was in Woodford county a few days the past week looking for a situation.

Sep. Ford, of Henry county, near Lockport, was the guest of N. Moore Saturday and Sunday.

Bro. Smith, who has been conducting a series of meetings here, closed Tuesday night with four additions.

Mr. John Smith, Jr., and Luther Phillips were in Scott county the past week for a few days looking out for a situation.

Mrs. Clara Smith, who is ninety years of age, is quite sick at Mr. Joseph Roberts', though some better at this writing.

Mrs. Louisa Moore, nee Pence and Mrs. Jane Polgore paid a flying visit to relatives in Belle Point Friday of last week.

Miss Annie Graves, one of the charming young ladies of Scott, Frankfort and Mr. Foley Smith, of Belle Point, were at our singing Sunday.

Mr. James Moore and wife, of Belle Point, were the guests of Mr. F. M. Smith and family Sunday and Monday.

We are glad to see that X. Y. Z. has come to the front from Bald Knob. We look that way and smile and say come again Mr. X. Y. Z. Please tell us when that wedding will take place.

Our worthy and highly esteemed School Commissioner, T. B. Ford, visited our school Tuesday of last week, and his remarks to the children were very appropriate indeed. Very sorry to learn that he will not be our next School Commissioner, for he is the right man in the right place.

On Wednesday morning of last week the people of this vicinity were alarmed by a whistle from an engine that appeared to be in the pike, near Henry Brown's. So they investigated the matter, and to their joy, found that J. J. Smith and Henry Moore had completed their great rail and were ready for business. Bring your corn in and have it ground. The gentlemen will do you right and give you good meal. If you don't bring corn enough to pay the toll they will only keep the sack. Come early to avoid the rain. Remember that they will grind on Friday in each week.

TENOR.

Elmville.

Mr. Willis Wiley spent several days last week with friends in Louisville.

Mr. J. N. Bridges sold a few days ago, to John Bradley, one dry cow for $40.

Dr. Peter Satterwhite has located in our village and will practice his profession.

Mr. L. A. Helrick has returned home sooner than expected, owing to feeble health.

Miss Emma Bratton, of Peak's Mill, is attending Miss Lizzie Parker's school at this place.

Mr. Willie Watson, of Bethany, says the Roundabout is the best paper for the price in the United States.

Mr. Robert Wiley left for Bloomington, Indiana, on the 25th ult., where he will visit friends and relatives until Spring.

Mr. Willie Wigginton is confined to his room from the effects of a love stroke received while at Mt. Vernon Church Sunday evening.

Miss Katie West and Miss Huels, of Peak's Mill neighborhood, were the guests of Miss Belle Hall, in this place, several days last week.

Mrs. James W. Bridges has been very sick at her home, two miles west of this place, for several days, but is better at present writing.

Mr. Spencer O. Wigginton has resigned his clerkship in the drug store of his brother and has gone into business in the State of Oregon.

Prof. J. C. Bridges will begin in a few days the erection of a very fine dwelling on his beautiful homestead, two miles southwest of this place.

Mr. Othello Hicks sold, on the 19th inst, a fine grand old cow, one iron grey mare, six years old, for one hundred and twenty dollars.

The witnesses that attended court from this place all wandered off from the court place, for here it requires four clerks in W. S. McGoff's dry goods house all the time to wait upon his customers.

Mr. J. T. Wigginton has been awarded the contract for building Mr. Parker's new dwelling on the Parker property adjoining town, at five hundred dollars.

Mr. James W. Bridges is doing the best business we ever have known any agent to do so short a time. Mr. B. will make his mark, as he is a wide-awake business man.

Mr. George Brink had quite a joke played upon him Saturday night by some young ladies, but we will not tell it as he was so badly sold. Put on your spurs next time, George.

Messrs. Joseph Menton and John Loe Bridges took in the Owen court on the fourth Monday. They claim Owen is equal to any market in the State to sell all kinds of stock.

Mr. George Brink, some weeks ago, made a necessary arrangement for going to work, but when he came to the farewell taking his heart failed him and he will make our village his future home.

Oakland Christian Church has called Elder Hiram Ford to preach for next year. It is a good selection as Bro. Ford is one of the best exponents of the scriptures in this part of the State.

The singing given in honor of Miss Winter at Mr. John Helm's, on Thursday night, was a perfect success and all that were so fortunate as to be present enjoyed themselves until a late hour.

The singing and social given at W. S. McGoff's Saturday night is said to have been the grand affair ever witnessed in this part of the State. The Reynolds Band, of Minoreville, Scott county, furnished the music.

Give Elmville a good Post office and then she will be the best town in the county. She wants the best school and should have him, as this end of the county has always been left out in the selection of officers and jurats. Fair play is all we want.

Our photographers pulled up stakes and drove down into Owen county last Sunday. Mr. Rollins will go to teaching school while Mr. Glass will go into the agricultural business. We wish the boys success, as they are clever fellows and made many warm friends while here.

That long talked of game of Base Ball came off at our Base Ball ground last Saturday evening between our home nine and the Peak's Mill Club. The boys all played their best, of course, but our nine beat the Peak's Mill boys two scores. It is said that John Ford did the best playing ever done on our grounds, and two of our club did the worst they ever have done, not making a single score. Every little boy in our village has the base ball fever and is practicing with walnuts, rocks, etc.

We have the best school in the State at this place, taking into consideration the many disadvantages surrounding it. The worst thing in it is old Nick's home. In a degree that children should be compelled to attend school in such a hovel. We had occasion to visit the school on Friday evening of last week and found 47 scholars in attendance. Several of them have gained 80 per cent. since the school began, it only being half out. Miss Lizzie F. Parker is the efficient teacher in charge. We would suggest to this neighborhood that they build a new house as it certainly is very badly needed.
